

Lovely garden open for charity

Local plant enthusiast, Helga Aldersey, opens her garden in aid of Cherry Tree Nursery, a charity supporting adults with severe and enduring mental illness, on several Sundays during spring and summer.

The garden features a large variety of shrubs, trees, grasses and perennials, with an emphasis on nature. There are plenty of insects and birds, and beehives in a hidden corner.

The garden has a lovely atmosphere, like an oasis in the middle of the town, Helga also loves baking and homemade cakes are her speciality.

There are Cherry Tree-grown plants on sale as well as tea or coffee and cake, with seating in the sun or shade.

Admission only £2.50, free for children.

Come and spend the afternoon!!
